Bandon Recorder: Knock the knock.

Mitchell was a good friend to Oregon but Oregon was also a good friend to Mitchell.

The time is once more at hand for large installations and suppers—Jefferson Review.

All the other senatorial candidates seem to be hastening to that Bourne house no senator ever returns.

The Salem, Falls City and Siletz railroad must be built. It will be built. It can be set down as a certainty inside of sixty days.

Independence Enterprise: For a long time the candidates in Oregon have been running on convention platforms. Now they will run on personal platforms.

The friends of Hon. Binger Hermann Roseburg will be glad to know that he is recovering from a serious attack of dysentery and Oregon journalism.

Halley on the supreme bench and Lowell talked of for the U. S. senate! Is there to be a high official law firm preserve established at Pendleton as well as at Portland.

Brownville Times: The Journal claims that the Salem hog has moved to Portland. We rather think the consensus of opinion is that there are two hogs—the Portland hog and the Salem hog—overgrown twins.

Is it a fact that C. S. Jackson of the Portland Journal came up to Salem and protested against Governor Chamberlain making a certain appointment and got turned down? Chamberlain don't take kindly to newspaper dictation.

Tillamook Headlight: The truth just as well come out as not, for it is plain to those who understand the political situation that Tooze is now a long way ahead of the other aspirants, and it is generally conceded by those who study the political weather gauge that Tooze will be the next congressman.

Oregon State Journal: The politicians who had received most benefits from Senator Mitchell, with the exception of Dave Dunne and a few others, cut him while alive as soon as his power to serve them was gone, and cut him when dead, the same as the senate did.

The colonel is all right, even if he is a little hard to keep in line sometimes, and we give notice now that we are going to nominate him for governor to succeed Governor Withycombe.—Forest Grove Times.

Say, what is use of keeping a man on the anxious seat for eight years!

County Superintendent Starr of the Polk county schools has started something new among educators—a convention of school teachers, directors and clerks. What is more, he has held a successful gathering of such clerks, teachers and directors. They actually had a question box, as if there were any unanswered problems connected with education! There is great danger in this proposition. If these conventions are made popular teachers and clerks and directors will mingle together and those who are of the mosquito-brained variety will be found out and weeded out and the time will come when actual intelligence will be required to hold these positions. This would start a weeding-out process that no man can tell where it would stop. Teachers and clerks and directors who can read and write English, and who read newspapers, will be demanded next and all kinds of extreme and unreasonable qualifications. The public schools are after awhile going to be brought up to the standard of common intelligence in other professions, and will be the important and sacred institution that it is held to be by the masses of the people.
